

COLOUR GUIDE

All stationery is professionally printed, having been prepared by a graphic designer to achieve the highest quality of prints. However, it is possible that subtle colour variations can occur between each piece. This is not a fault of the designer, but a natural effect of the printing process. There can also be a colour variation between paper stock. Each paper stock absorbs ink differently, therefore, might have a slightly different result. Stationery cannot be refunded or returned because of normal printing effects.

Kiki & Poppi takes pride in the quality of the work produced and assure that all of the stationery is printed to the highest professional standards.
